

I am a resident of Indiana and I am on the attorney general's no call list. This service has been very effective for me and I would hope that the federal rules would be modeled after Indiana's law. I do not think any business has the right to call me if I have requested not to be called. I pay for the telephone service and do not expect to be interrupted constantly as I was in the past. I also sent that even four individuals do not wish to be placed on the do not call list should be bothered by commercial phone calls with their caller ID blocked. If they are going to conduct business with a telephone to individuals who wish to be called they still should identify themselves.

Please do not do anything to weaken the Indiana law.
